Water in die amaXhosa-kultuur

1. Water is nie net belangrik vir die omgewing en vir die voort-bestaan van diere en plante nie. Ook die mens is afhanklik van water om gesond te bly, 'n lewe te bou en te floreer.
2. Water is belangrik vir ons gesondheid omdat drie-kwart van ons liggamoë uit water bestaan. Net so speel water 'n belangrike rol in elke ander aspek van ons lewe, soos in ons kulturele en godsdiensrituele.
3. Die meeste groot stede en dorpe in die wêreld is naby aan water-bronne soos damme, riviere, mere en oseane gebou sodat waterweë gebruik kan word om die handel en ekonomie te bevorder.
4. Johannesburg is die enigste wêrelstad wat nie naby aan 'n waterbron gebou is nie. Nog 'n interessante feit oor Johannesburg is dat dit die grootste mensgemaakte woud bevat. Elke boom in Johannesburg is deur mense geplant.
5. Nomadiiese stamme in Afrika het nog altyd gesoek na opgaar-plekke van water om gewasse te kan verbou en weiding vir hulle beeste te hê.
6. Tradisioneel bou Afrikakulture nie 'n stat naby aan water nie. Sommige mense dink die rede hiervoor is dat Afrikane 'n vrees vir water het. Ander dink weer die geskiedenis van slaweëhandel het tot hierdie tradisie geleid. Hierdie menings is egter nie waar nie.
7. Die ware rede is dat water in Afrika as 'n kosbare en heilige hulpbron gesien word. Alle waterbronne – riviere, mere, damme en oseane – moet altyd gerespekteer en bewaar word.
8. Net soos in die ander kulture van Afrika, speel water 'n baie belangrike rol in die lewe en kultuur van die amaXhosa. Dit is veral vir hulle betekenisvol in hulle kulturele rituele en godsdienspraktyke.
9. Wanneer jong seuns berg toe gaan vir hulle inisiasierite, word water as reinigingsmiddel voor die inisiasie gebruik. Die reiniging met water simboliseer hulle oorgang van jong seuns na volwasse mans. Die water is 'n teken dat hulle hulle ou manier van leef afgewas het en dat hulle nou gereed is vir die nuwe reis as volwassenes wat voorlê.

10. Voordat die jong manne ná hulle inisiasie na die gemeenskap kan terugkeer, moet hulle hulle tyd in die berg ook eers met water afwas. Dit is die laaste reiniging voordat hulle terugkeer huis toe as volwasse mans. Tydens die inisiasierite in die berg word die jong manne geleer om water te respekteer en te bewaar.
11. Die amaXhosa beskou waterbronne as heilige plekke omdat riviere, mere, damme en oseane die woonplek van die voorvaders en verskeie diere is. Water is ook belangrik vir die heililing en toerusting van die tradisionele genesers, die izangoma (meervoud) en isangoma (enkelvoud). Geen reis van die isangoma is volledig sonder die betrokkenheid van 'n waterbron soos 'n rivier, dam, meer of oseaan nie. 'n Sangoma word na die water geroep deur die proses van ukuthwasa om die gawe en kennis van heling te ontvang.
12. Water speel 'n groot rol in die godsdiestige rituele van baie Afrikakerke. Baie gelowiges verkieς om gedoop te word deurdat hulle hele liggaam ondergedompel word in 'n rivier, dam, meer of oseaan. Daarom is dit so belangrik dat water onbesoedel sal wees en bewaar sal word.
13. In die verlede is families wat oor die dood van 'n geliefde gerou het uit die gemeenskap weggenaem en in 'n woud gevestig totdat hulle routydperk verby was. Wanneer hulle uit die woud teruggekom het, moes hulle hulle in 'n rivier of stroom gaan was en reinig. In sekere dele van die Oos-Kaap bestaan die ritueel steeds dat weduwees aan die einde van hulle rouproses na 'n rivier geneem word om hulle te was.
14. Uit die kultuur van die amaXhosa sien ons dat water baie belangrik is vir die mens om gesond te bly en om betekenis aan ons lewe te gee. Water is inderdaad lewiegewend, heilig en helend.

Water in the amaXhosa culture

1. Water is not only important for nature and the survival of animals and plants. People are also dependent on water to stay healthy, build a life and flourish.
2. Water is essential for our health as three-quarters of our bodies consist of water. Water also plays a very important role in every other aspect of our lives, as in our cultural and religious rituals.
3. Most major cities and towns in the world are built close to water resources such as dams, rivers, lakes and oceans to promote and support trade and commerce.
4. Johannesburg is the only major city in the world that was not built near a water source. Another interesting fact about Johannesburg is that it has the biggest man-made forest in the world. People planted every tree in Johannesburg.
5. Nomadic tribes in Africa were always in search of abundant water catchments to grow crops and have grazing for their cattle.

6. Traditionally, African cultures do not build settlements close to water resources. Some people think the reason for this is that African people fear water. Others argue that the slave trade led to this tradition. These arguments, however, are not true.
7. The actual reason for this tradition is that in an African context water is seen as a precious and holy resource. All water resources – rivers, lakes, dams and oceans – should always be respected and preserved.
8. As in other cultures of Africa, water plays a very important role in the life and culture of the amaXhosa. Water is especially meaningful in their cultural rituals and religious practices.
9. When young boys go to the mountain for their initiation ritual, water is used for cleansing before the initiation. This cleansing with water symbolises the rite of passage from boyhood to manhood. The water is a symbol that they washed off their old way of life and are now ready to take on the new journey as adults.
10. Before the young men can return to the community, they have to wash off the time in the mountain with water. This is the last cleansing before they can return home as adults. Part of this initiation ritual is to teach the young men to respect and preserve water.
11. The amaXhosa regards water resources as sacred places for rivers, lakes, dams and oceans are the place where the ancestors and various animals live. Water is also vitally important for the sanctification and equipment of traditional healers, the izangoma (plural) and isangoma (singular). No journey of an isangoma is ever complete without the involvement of a water resource like a river, dam, lake or ocean. A sangoma can be called to the water through the process of ukuthwasa to receive the gift and knowledge of healing.
12. Water plays a vital role in the religious rituals of many African churches. Many believers choose to be baptised by their whole body being immersed in a river, dam, lake or ocean. That is also a very important reason to keep our water resources unpolluted and to preserve our water.
13. In the past, families mourning over the death of a beloved were removed from the community and settled in a forest until their mourning period was over. When they came from the forest to join the community again, they had to wash and cleanse themselves in a river or stream. In some areas of the Eastern Cape the ritual is still observed to take widows to a river after their mourning period to wash themselves.
14. From the culture of the amaXhosa, we see how important water is for people to stay healthy and give meaning to their lives. Water is indeed life giving, holy and healing.

10 Water saving tips

Every young person can follow these 10 water saving tips at home and at school. By doing this, they will contribute to save our water resources for future generations.

1. Do not wash your clothes every day.

Washing your clothes every day wastes water. It is better to wash all your dirty clothes once a week.

2. Take a bath only once a day.

Do not take a bath more than once a day. It is also better to shower than to take a bath. When you shower, you use less water.

3. Take a quick shower instead of taking a bath.

A quick shower saves water. Do not spend more than five minutes in the shower. Collect the first cold water in a bucket and use it for something else, such as watering the garden or flushing the toilet.

4. Do not boil water if using a washbasin to wash yourself.

If you use a washbasin to wash yourself, do not boil water in a kettle. This will require you to add a lot of cold water to the boiled water to cool it down to lukewarm. By warming the water until it is just the right temperature you will save water and electricity, paraffin or gas.

5. Do not wet your toothbrush before brushing your teeth.

You can save water by not wetting your toothbrush under a running tap before brushing your teeth. Put the toothpaste onto your toothbrush and start brushing your teeth. Your saliva will make the brush moist enough.

6. Turn off the tap while brushing your teeth.

Do not let the tap water run while brushing your teeth. Also, do not rinse your mouth with running water. Fill a cup or glass with water to rinse your mouth.

7. Do not waste cold water coming from a tap.

When you shower or wash the dishes, do not waste the first cold water from the tap. Collect this water and keep it for other uses in the house or for the garden.

8. Use a basin or bowl to wash fruit and vegetables.

When you wash fruit like an apple or grapes or raw vegetables, use a basin or bowl to collect the water while you rinse the fruit or vegetables. Keep this water for other uses in the house or for the garden.

9. Collect rainwater.

Collect water when it rains. You can use this water, for example, to flush the toilet, water the garden or wash your clothes.

10. Listen for water leaks at home.

When you are at home, listen if you can hear water dripping. It could be that a tap was not closed properly or is leaking, or that a water pipe has burst. Always close taps properly and repair leaking taps and broken water pipes immediately.
